

Abby Mathai

Senior Account Executive

Abby Mathai supports DCI's clients by managing and executing high-stakes public affairs campaigns where she advises a diverse portfolio of clients in the emerging technologies sector, with a proven track record in crisis communications, litigation support, coalition-building, and financial operations. She specializes in engaging and mobilizing stakeholders through organic and paid digital advocacy tactics like branded storytelling resulting in online reputation management, removing existential threats to clients' businesses, and building an organic army of support to mobilize for future policy crises.

Prior to DCI, Abby worked as a legal assistant at Jameson & Powers, P.C, where she managed a portfolio of commercial real estate clients, specializing in environmental site assessments.

She earned her Bachelor of Arts from Furman University in Greenville, SC - a dual degree in Political/International Affairs and Psychology.
