

Jayne Millerick

Vice President

Jayne Millerick is Vice President at DCI where she leads the firm's engagement with state governors and attorneys general. She is also founding President of the Governors' Chiefs of Staff Network. With over 20 years of experience in high-impact roles, she has a proven track record of directing successful teams dedicated to executing good governance, smart public policy and effective communications campaigns.

Prior to joining DCI, Jayne was Chief of Staff for New Hampshire Governor Christopher Sununu - the longest to serving Chief in state history. In that role, she led a team of senior executives, fostering a culture of continuous improvement and strategic thinking that contributed to the state's national ranking of most efficient delivery of services.

Jayne was chairperson of the New Hampshire State Republican Party as well as previously serving as its executive director. She has served as public spokesperson and media advisor for corporations, trade associations, elected officials, candidates, and political parties for many years. She specializes in crisis management and building effective state-based public affairs campaigns.

A graduate of the University of New Hampshire, Jayne was a member of the Board of Directors for the Josiah Bartlett Center for Public and the Concord Hospital Trust. She has appeared as a guest on MSNBC and Fox News and has had published interviews in the New York Times, Washington Post, Associated Press, Chicago Tribune and Boston Globe.
